Disclosures

Consumer Price Index (CPI): A commonly used statistic to measure inflation from the consumer's perspective. The Bureau of Labor Statistics calculates the index from detailed consumer spending information. Changes in CPI measure price changes in a market basket of consumer goods and services such as gas, food, clothing, and cars.

Federal Reserve (Fed): The U.S. central bank responsible for monetary policies affecting the U.S. financial system and the economy.

Gross domestic product (GDP): A measure of the total economic output in goods and services for an economy.

S&P 500® Index: A market-capitalization-weighted index of the 500 largest U.S. publicly traded companies. The index is widely regarded as the best gauge of large-cap U.S. equities.
