

Biography

Sharvari Johari

Senior Sustainable Research Analyst

Sharvari Johari is a senior sustainable research analyst for American Century Investments, a premier investment manager headquartered in Kansas City, Missouri. She is based in the company's New York office.

A member of the firm's Sustainable Research team, Sharvari is responsible for expanding sustainable research, innovating assessment tools, and advancing stewardship practices. Prior to joining American Century in 2021, she was an impact and ESG associate for Hall Capital Partners where she conducted due diligence and committed capital to social impact investments, analyzed impact success metrics and managed multiple impact investing projects. Prior to that, Sharvari served as a venture capitalist and private equity research analyst at Hall Capital. She has worked in the industry since 2017.

Sharvari holds a bachelor's degree in sociology and economics from Wellesley College. She is also part of the editorial team of All Raise, a nonprofit organization dedicated to diversity in the technology industry.