ESG AND INVESTMENT STEWARDSHIP

ESG issues are increasingly important to the long-term financial success of a company. As skilled, experienced, and active investment managers we believe it is our duty to our clients to evaluate and integrate ESG factors in our analysis. We believe doing so can contribute to better investment outcomes.

ESG Integrated Throughout the Investment Process

In 2021, investments in Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG)-related securities were up more than 40% from 2020.* With this increased adoption, demand for more ESG choices is on the rise.

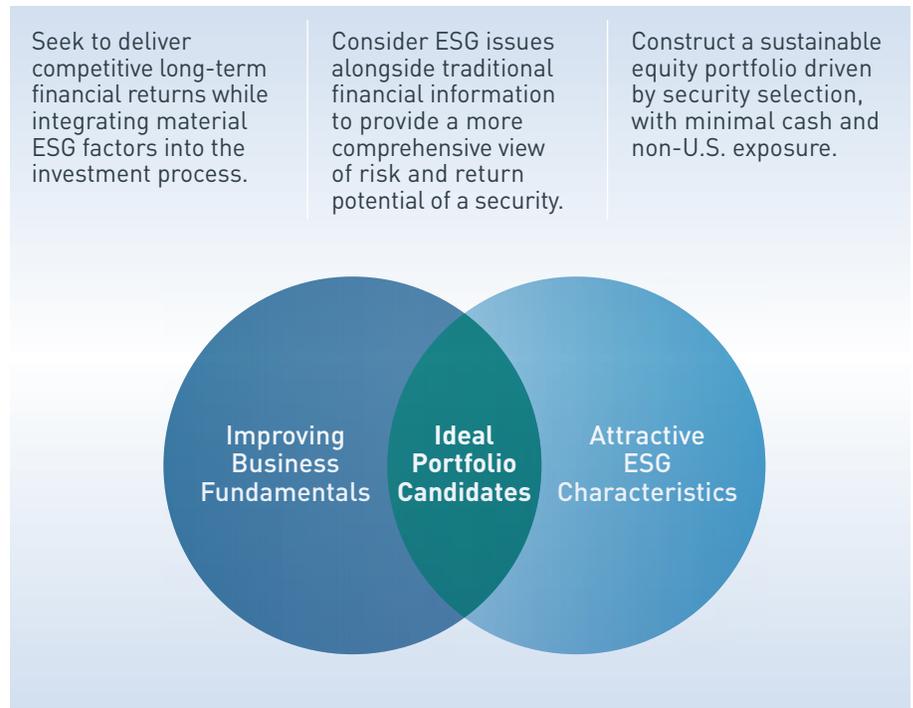

Investing in companies that are good for the world and good for society isn't just about making you feel good. It may also help manage risk, increase long-term gains and positively impact the world.

The Sustainable Equity Strategies apply our unique blend of financial analysis and ESG screening criteria to provide a comprehensive view of a security. This approach allows us to deliver a socially conscious, sustainable, actively-managed portfolio in multiple vehicles that may align with core portfolio investment choices.

Building a Portfolio of Strong, Sustainable Businesses

The managers believe integrating ESG analysis alongside traditional financial evaluation creates a more robust portfolio that offers the potential to deliver excess returns over time. As they seek to identify stocks that exhibit both attractive business characteristics and strong ESG profiles, the team evaluates each security, applying rigorous fundamental research along with ESG analysis. Their goal is to deliver sustainable equity portfolios with performance driven primarily by stock selection.

Investing in Durable ESG Leaders

The managers consider ESG criteria alongside standard business metrics. The ESG Score measures each company’s exposure to ESG risks and how well the company manages them. The Business Improvement Score ranks companies based on such attributes as growth, valuation, quality, cash flow and margin growth. The portfolio emphasizes those stocks the managers believe possess an attractive combination of these attributes. Lower ranking companies are scrutinized by ESG and investment analysts to determine whether they have the potential to help diversify the portfolio.

The following chart illustrates distribution of a hypothetical portfolio’s holdings based on their ESG and Business Improvement Scores.

Note: The size of the bubble represents the excess weight of the stock

The ESG and Business Improvement scores are derived from proprietary tools and processes developed by American Century Investments. Additionally, ESG scoring utilizes data from MSCI and Sustainalytics. Business Improvement scoring utilizes fundamental evaluation and ESG materiality analysis completed by the investment team members. Companies receiving higher scores are considered for potential portfolio addition or overweighting and those with lower scores are either omitted from consideration or are deemed candidates for underweighting.

SEEKING:

- Substantially less impact on the planet, with lower greenhouse gas emissions
- Safer, more productive working environment, with lower worker fatality rates
- Strong corporate governance with robust policies and procedures
- Low labor unrest and high employee satisfaction
- Corporate board and management diversity and independence

INVESTOR PROFILE

- Investors who are seeking an active U.S. equity strategy that integrates ESG factors as part of their core or growth portfolio allocation.
- Investors who are concerned about ESG issues and want the stocks they invest in to have less impact on the planet.
- Investors looking to tap the expertise of a veteran active management team with unique insights.

SUSTAINABILITY

It's in Our Genes®

Sustainability isn't just something we practice; it is part of who we are as a company and as global citizens.

With an ownership structure that directs over 40% of our profits to fund medical research, we attract employees motivated to make a difference in the world and develop investment teams who weigh more than just traditional financial criteria in their analyses.

Many of American Century's investment strategies are subject to the incorporation of ESG factors into the investment process employed by each strategy's portfolio managers. When portfolio managers incorporate Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) factors into an investment strategy, they consider those issues in conjunction with traditional financial analysis. When selecting investments, portfolio managers incorporate ESG factors into the portfolio's existing asset class, time horizon, and objectives. Therefore, ESG factors may limit the investment opportunities available, and the portfolio may perform differently than those that do not incorporate ESG factors. Portfolio managers have ultimate discretion in how ESG issues may impact a portfolio's holdings, and depending on their analysis, investment decisions may not be affected by ESG factors.
